

Roosevelt Victory Exceeds '32 Landslide; Lehman Wins with Huge Vote; New Deal Vindicated; Ulster County Remains in Republican Column

All Republican Candidates Sweep Into Office With Substantial Margins in Ulster County.

ELTING PRAISED

Republican County Chairman Credited with Local Victory for G.O.P.

The election Tuesday proved another sweeping Republican victory in Ulster county when the entire county ticket was elected by handsome majorities, while pluralities were given to the Republican candidates on the national and state tickets. In Kingston the only Democrat to carry the city was Chris J. Flanagan, who received a majority of over 600 but this plurality was not large enough to meet the mounting tide of votes in the county that were cast for District Attorney Cleon B. Murray who was re-elected for his third term.

The newly organized American Labor party, which was supporting President Roosevelt, gave him 241 votes in Kingston, while Norman Thomas, the Socialist candidate for president, received 379 Socialist votes cast here.

The election also developed the fact that Earl Browder, the Communist candidate for president, received a total of 15 Communist votes that were cast in the city.

Throughout New York state the polls were kept open until 9 o'clock last night, under the provisions of the new state law adopted at a special session of the state legislature. In Kingston the greater part of the vote was cast before 7 o'clock last evening.

Only 500 Failed to Vote
Both major parties in Kingston made every effort to get out the vote as was shown by the fact that while there were 15,340 registered voters the total vote cast for president totaled 15,476, or 464 less than the registration.

Congressman Goodwin carried Ulster county by a majority of approximately 9,382, receiving 23,297 votes while his opponent, Dr. Roy Shafer, received 16,315 votes. There were three districts missing.

Senator Arthur H. Wicks carried Ulster county by a majority of about 7,812, receiving a total of 23,766 votes cast while his opponent, former Supervisor Herbert George, received 15,954 votes. There were five districts missing.

Assemblyman J. Edward Conway was elected by a majority of about 8,212, receiving 24,835 votes, while his opponent, John Burgevin, received a total of 16,173 votes. There were three districts missing.

County Clerk James A. Simpson swept Ulster county receiving a majority of approximately 7,415 votes over his Democratic opponent, John D. Van Kleeck, who received 17,114 votes, while Mr. Simpson received 24,123 votes. There were two districts missing.

The hotly fought race in Ulster county was that for the office of district attorney with District Attorney Cleon B. Murray being re-elected for his third term by a majority of 3,543 over Chris J. Flanagan of this city. The vote was Murray 22,867; Flanagan 19,324. There were two districts missing.

County Judge Frederick G. Traver and Coroner Lester D. DuBois, the Republican candidates, were unopposed.

It was shortly after 9 o'clock last night when sufficient returns had been received here from the nation showing the re-election of President Roosevelt, while the re-election of Governor Lehman was still in doubt, that local Democrats staged a victory parade through the city with a number of automobiles in line and they made a tour of the city with auto horns tooting and the occupants of the cars adding to the din. The fact that the Democratic county ticket went down to defeat did not dim in any extent the celebration that was staged.

Owing to the late hour at which the polls closed the returns from the county came in slowly, but as fast as each election district reported the news of the election that the entire Republican county ticket had been elected. The closeness of the county election in reporting may be judged from the fact that at 1 o'clock this morning some 39 districts had not reported.

In Kingston the result of the city vote on national, state and county tickets was known shortly after 10 o'clock. All of the 26 election districts in the city filed a report of the vote cast in each district with the police officer who was on duty in the district throughout the day and evening. Each officer brought this report to police headquarters, where the vote was tabulated and added.

Chris Flanagan Only Democrat To Carry City in Tuesday Voting

Chris J. Flanagan was the only Democratic candidate to carry the city of Kingston at the election on Tuesday, defeating District Attorney Cleon B. Murray, the Republican candidate to succeed himself, by a majority of 645. Mr. Flanagan was also the candidate for district attorney on the Socialist ticket, receiving 370 Socialist votes and 7,511 Democratic votes, while District Attorney Murray received 7,236 votes on the Republican ticket.

That there was considerable splitting of votes in the city Tuesday is shown by the fact that while Governor Landon carried the city by 194 majority over President Roosevelt, the voters gave Judge Bleakley a majority of 964 over Governor Lehman.

Senator Wicks received the largest majority, carrying the city by 1,565 over Herbert George, his Democratic opponent for the state senate.

County Clerk James A. Simpson carried the city by a majority of 1,418.

Congressman Goodwin carried the city by a majority of 1,048.

Assemblyman J. Edward Conway

was given the handsome majority of 1,519 over his Democratic opponent, John Burgevin.

Gov. Lehman, Returned to Office by 600,000 Vote Margin, Is Happy at the Result.

LEGISLATURE

Republicans Control the Assembly; Democrats Have Senate.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 4 (AP)—Re-elected by an overwhelming margin of more than 600,000 votes, Governor Lehman expressed his gratitude today and pledged the people of the state "the best that is in me" during his third term.

"I am very pleased at my re-election by such a fine majority," the governor declared as late returns increased his lead over his Republican rival, William F. Bleakley.

"I am going to give to my duties in the next two years all the energy and heart that I have during the last eight years."

The governor received returns at his headquarters in New York city last night as he puffed on his "victory pipe" pressed into service during this campaign for the first time in two years.

Reluctant at first to make the race for a third term, he was elated as he saw his margin of victory approach the record 800,000 plurality he polled two years ago. In the state at large he had a plurality of $22,000 on the basis of latest incomplete returns. In New York city he polled a plurality of 922,038.

Expresses Gratitude
The governor expressed gratification over the "magnificent victory" of President Roosevelt, who induced him to run again after he had decided to retire at the conclusion of his second term.

The President, Governor Lehman said, "Has been endorsed by a great majority of the people and will be able to carry on his splendid work in behalf of the people of this nation."

While the Republicans still retain control of the Assembly, the Governor will find his party in a slightly stronger position in that branch of the legislature when he begins his third term in January.

Five Seats in Assembly
The Democrats maintained their control of the Senate and gained five seats in the Assembly in yesterday's election. In the past, many of the Governor's measures met strong opposition from the Republicans in the lower house and on more than one occasion he has appealed directly to the people in an effort to gain support for his legislative programs.

This action of the governor's made a campaign issue by his opponent, William F. Bleakley, who charged the Chief Executive with attempting to "coerce" the legislators into doing his bidding.

The Republican candidate pledged that if he were elected he would abide by the wishes of the legislature and not appeal to the people, if his measures failed of passage.

Governor Lehman branded this attitude of his rival as a "weak and supine" conception of the functions of the executive office and announced that he would continue to appeal to the people if he felt their interests were jeopardized.

The Republican majority in the Assembly blocked the Governor's eight point Social Security Program last spring while passing a Social Security measure of its own.

The Governor also clashed with the Assembly Republicans over his sixty point Crime Program and denounced certain "willful" members of the Assembly for opposing the

Flood-Tide of Returns Shows Way Toward Record Breaking New Deal Congress Majority

Election by States Shows Strength of "Favored Sons"

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—Here is a brief summary of what happened in the states:

Alabama
Nine Democrats were sent to the House, including Speaker William B. Bankhead, father of Actress Tallulah Bankhead. His elder brother, John H. Bankhead, author of the Bankhead Cotton Control Act, was returned to the Senate and Roosevelt was given 11 electoral votes.

Arizona
R. C. Stanford, Democrat, led for the governorship to succeed B. B. Moeur. No senator was elected. The state gave its three electoral votes to Roosevelt and sent a Democrat to the House.

Arkansas
Sen. Joseph T. Robinson, majority leader, was re-elected. Nine electoral votes went to Roosevelt. Four Democrats were sent to the House, with three House contests in doubt. Carl E. Bailey, Democrat, was leading for governor.

California
So many political cross-currents affected the race that 12 House seats remained in doubt, three went Democratic and four Republican. The 22 electoral votes went to Roosevelt.

Colorado
Charles M. Armstrong, Republican, trailed Teller Ammons, Democrat, in the governorship race. The state's six electoral votes went to Roosevelt. Ed C. Johnson, retiring governor, was leading for the Senate seat vacated by retirement of Senator Coolidge. The state's four House seats were in doubt.

Connecticut
This New England state gave Roosevelt its 5 electoral votes, elected six Democratic House members, and re-elected Wilbur L. Cross, Democrat, as governor, for two years. It was the first Democratic presidential victory in the state since 1912. Six Democrats elected to the house.

Delaware
Senator Daniel O. Hastings, among the bitterest of Republican foes of the New Deal, was defeated by Democrat James H. Hughes for the senate while the state gave its three electoral votes to Roosevelt. Richard M. Mullen, Democrat, was elected to the governorship vacated by Clayton B. Burch, relative by marriage to the duPonts. A Democrat won the single house seat.

Florida
Democrats swept the state, giving President Roosevelt its seven electoral votes. Two Democrats, Claude Pepper and Charles O. Andrews, Republicans Will Have The Smallest Electoral Vote Since Taft.

(By The Associated Press)

A Roosevelt landslide that shook the nation today left but two states clinging to Republicanism.

Maine and Vermont alone clutched the beaten banner of Alfred M. Landon. New Hampshire, after marching with him all night, finally turned into the victorious columns of Roosevelt in the morning returns to give the President a narrow lead.

All the other states already had given the Democratic presidential ticket—shouting majorities in the electoral college, and sent new recruits to the previously top-heavy list of Democratic Senate and House members. The apparent electoral vote stood at 523 for Roosevelt, 8 for Landon.

The final thinning of the Republican ranks left them with the smallest electoral vote the party has had since the Taft debacle in 1912. Taft had just 8 votes; 89 had gone to the Bull Mooseers of Theodore Roosevelt, and the rest to Woodrow Wilson. Not since 1920, when James Monroe was re-elected with just one dissenting vote in the electoral college, has there been so close an approach to unanimity of electors.

Plurality of 9 Millions.
The New Deal plurality of popular votes seemed likely to approach 9,000,000.

Of the prize packages, heavily stuffed with electoral votes, California came to Roosevelt by half a million; Illinois by 600,000; Michigan by 100,000; New York by more than a million; Ohio by 300,000; Pennsylvania, the strong fortress of Republicanism, by 500,000.

In the senate, the Democrats bade fair to hold 75 of the 96 seats. Senators Borah of Idaho and Norris of Nebraska, independent Republicans, appeared to be escaping the landslide. Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, was having a hot fight and the veterans Hastings of Delaware and Metcalf of Rhode Island were beaten.

More Democratic house members instead of fewer seemed in prospect. In many states the issue was in doubt, however. The veteran representative Florence P. Kahn of California was beaten.

Of the governorships at stake, the Democrats had captured twelve, were leading for 14 others; the Republicans took two, were leading for three more.

The roaring tornado of Roosevelt victory appeared also to have smashed Republican hopes for substantial gains in the 33 gubernatorial contests. Democrats apparently had captured seven governorships and headed toward victory in 16 other such contests while the incomplete returns showed Republicans ahead in only eight. Twenty-five of the 33 governor's chairs involved in the election now are held by Democrats.

While the President, smiling happily received the plaudits of supporters at Hyde Park, a message sped to him over the telegraph wires from the defeated governor of Kansas:

"Nation Has Spoken"
"The nation has spoken," Landon wired from Topeka. "Every American will accept the verdict, and work for the common cause of the good of our country. That is the spirit of democracy. You have my sincere congratulations."

After spending seven hours in receiving election returns—interrupted once to tell celebrating neighbors that it looked like "one of the largest sweeps" in history, Mr. Roosevelt received the Landon message and replied that "all of us Americans now will pull together for the common good."

The indicated electoral vote, on the basis of incomplete tabulations at that time, was 519 for Roosevelt to 12 for Landon. This, if the totals held, would be an even more emphatic electoral college victory for Roosevelt than in 1932, when he broke all records up to that time by garnering 472 to Herbert Hoover's 59.

The 12 votes for Landon would not set a low record, however, because Taft received only eight in 1912 in the famous three-cornered contest with Wilson and Theodore Roosevelt.

In contrast to the Roosevelt sweep from coast to coast, Landon had succeeded in polling up safe margins only in Maine and Vermont, while he held New Hampshire in a more uncertain grip. These three states accounted for the 12 electoral votes

"Will you answer the telephone for Mother?"

Coming home one day, a mother looked up and saw her child trying to get out of a second-story window. She had the presence of mind to realize that a display of emotion might be fatal.

So she called out softly: "Will you answer the telephone for Mother?" The child climbed back into the room and ran to the telephone.

Of course, this is an unusual example of the "emergency" value of the telephone. But it suggests the more common emergencies in which the telephone is priceless. Indeed, many persons feel that just having a telephone handy for calls they may never make is worth far more than the two or three nickels a day they pay for telephone service. FOUR-LEGGED TRACTORS
The above designation may be used in the future for work horses. Or perhaps, with our growing preference for long technical words, it will be "quadrupedal tractors." Anyway, this type of traction is obviously not passing out, as most people expected a few years ago. There is now a brisk demand for horses, and prices are going up. And not merely, as some city people may fancy, for racing and riding horses. The demand is for farm work horses. Authorities report that a good farm horse, sound in wind and limb, which could have been bought for $65 in 1930, will set the farmer back $150 today, and a $200 span of mules will now cost $500. Even an unbroken mustang that would have brought no more than $25 or $30 six years ago is now worth $125. A real scarcity has developed, and more farm horses will be raised.

SAFE BRIDGE-BUILDING.
It used to be said of dangerous engineering jobs such as the construction of a high bridge that "one life is lost for every million dollars in construction." As the Golden Gate Bridge across San Francisco Harbor nears completion it is announced that a new safety record has been made. Unprecedented precautions, including installation of a gigantic net beneath the steel work, have been so effective that not one life has been lost in this hazardous, $35,000,000 job.

EMPTY LANDS.
A London bishop, visiting Canada lately, was astonished at the contradiction of the vast, fertile, empty spaces in that country, contrasting with the crowds, idleness and poverty of England. In Canada, Australia and other roomy portions of the Empire he saw unlimited opportunity for the British unemployed. An "empty empire," he thinks, would be "a curse to the world." At least it would be a blank instead of a blinding.

DURABLE CARS
A new invention, combining metal alloys and electrical treatment, is expected to "multiply the present mileage left to automobile bearings by three." This is typical of processes and discoveries running all through American industry, but most obvious in the automotive business. A certain celebrated English car used to be advertised as the automobile that never wore out. That durability was the result of most elaborate and painstaking methods of manufacture and upkeep, every car being handled as an individual job. But today American manufacturers operate by quantity production methods and apparently grinding out autos almost like sausages, nevertheless have arrived at such refinement of materials, tools and methods that nearly all our cars may soon be practically everlasting. It will be almost impossible to wear them out.

GALL BLADDER
If you were asked what was the most common ailment or disease in the abdomen you might say appendicitis, ulcer of the stomach, or "inflammation" of the bowels or intestines. You would be mistaken. Inflammation of the gall bladder (chole cystitis) is the commonest of all abdominal diseases. It is now being recognized that many of the conditions causing symptoms in stomach and intestines are due in great part to an inflamed gall bladder. It is estimated that 2 of every 3 adults have more or less disturbance of the gall bladder. In fact the gall bladder is affected even in childhood.

The cause of the inflammation is the presence of tiny organisms but why they locate there, how they reach there, and what are the varieties of organisms calls for thorough and painstaking investigation. That these organisms would not locate in the gall bladder if it were kept active by exercise is admitted because exercise keeps the bile moving as was proven at McGill University, Montreal, some years ago. The first point then is that sluggishness of the liver and gall bladder seems to invite these little organisms to locate in the gall bladder. All are agreed that this sluggishness is due to overweight, overeating, chronic constipation, and lack of exercise. Tight corsets were an important factor in former years. In the early stage, the symptoms of chole cystitis may be just pain or fullness in region of stomach, gas pressure, and nausea, biliousness is the name often used.

THE EXERCISE
The exercise consists of deep breathing to push the diaphragm down against the liver, and bending exercises with knees straight.

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

SYNOPSIS: Using Elia Little as a blind, a madman, Mahony, who knows much too much about Lawson's activities as a detective, and who is a detective himself, is determined to make his own place in the world. He is a detective, and he is a madman. He is a detective, and he is a madman. He is a detective, and he is a madman.

Chapter 45
TERENCE AGAIN
BASSETT told Ruth briefly how Elia had got into touch with him and asked for an appointment with Mahony, and how Mahony had agreed to meet her in that deserted house in Clapham at eleven o'clock.

When he had finished Ruth stood thinking. She did not understand it at all. How could Mahony possibly be laying a trap for Lawson and his satellites, if he had gone off to that house completely alone?

"Didn't he say anything at all about his plans?" she asked in a worried tone.

"Not a word," answered Fatty. "I wouldn't tell me nothing."

At that Barney Flynn spoke. He also had a hesitating air.

"He told me not to say anything, but yesterday evening he asked me could I get him some soap and a diamond drill," he put in. "Would that be anything to do with this night's scheme, I wonder?"

"Soap?" echoed Ruth.

The big Irishman blushed slightly.

"Tis what we call nitro-glycerine," he explained. "In me old days, 'tis what I used to use for opening safes. 'Tis quite a simple matter when you know how, and if you can muffle the explosion with an old blanket or a coat, it is not very noisy. There's many a crib I have cracked with the aid of a teaspoonful of soap."

"But what could he use it for in an empty house?" asked Ruth. "It wouldn't be any good as a bomb, I suppose."

"It could cause an explosion, but a revolver would be handier in a fight," admitted the Irishman.

There was another pause. Ruth's brows were knit in a frown; her eyes had an anxious look; she did not seem to know what to do or say.

Though she tried to repress it, she could not help a slight feeling of jealousy; she hated the idea of Terence going to meet Elia without telling her.

But even more than that, she hated the idea of Terence incurring some danger which she was not allowed to share.

The frown faded from her face and was replaced by a look of firm decision. Ruth had made up her mind what she was going to do.

Possibly she was being foolish, but she did not care. If Terence was going into danger, she was going with him. She also would keep that appointment in the house in Clapham at eleven that night.

She did not mention her intentions to Fatty and Barney, for she feared that they might try to prevent her from going.

"I suppose Terence knows what he is doing," she remarked. "The only thing to do is to wait and see what happens. I think I'm going to take a walk round the houses and get a bit of fresh air. I'm sick of being cooped up in the house all day, and nobody is likely to recognize me in the darkness."

She turned and left the room; they heard the front door of the house close behind her.

MAHONY had very good reasons for not wishing Fatty, or any of his band, or even Ruth, to take part in his expedition that night.

It was not his intention to walk into a death trap alone and be butchered like a sheep, but at the same time, it was not his intention to have any sort of large scale fight in that lonely house with the numerical odds all against his own side. His plan was quite different from that.

He left the hide-out which Fatty had provided for him shortly before ten, but instead of making for the house in Clapham, he went on the road in which Lawson's house was situated. There he waited, watching Lawson's house.

His calculations were simple. He reckoned that if his appointment with Elia was a trap set by Lawson, both Lawson himself and most of the men under his command would be taking part in it; they would be taking no chance of failure through any lack of numbers.

He also reckoned that Lawson would leave his house early in order to be at Clapham in plenty of time to make his final arrangements.

His calculations were correct. As soon as he had received news of the time and place of Mahony's appointment with Elia, Lawson and went out orders to his subordinates to raise every man possible for a big job that evening. It was his intention to have that house in Clapham surrounded by a force big enough to deal with Mahony and any bodyguard which Fatty might have formed for his protection.

About the time that Mahony arrived in the road outside his house, Lawson was sitting in his study waiting for a message. This message was to come from a traitor in Fatty's band, whom Lawson's subordinates had succeeded in bribing to give their chief away.

At ten past ten the expected message came, the telephone bell rang, and Lawson lifted the receiver.

"What have you got to tell me?" he demanded.

"Nothing," said a voice at the other end of the wire.

"Nothing?" echoed Lawson angrily. "What do you mean, nothing? I want to know what Bassett's plans are for tonight, exactly how many men he's sending out, and what their orders are."

"He ain't got no plans," replied the voice at the other end of the wire. "He ain't given no orders. Most of his blokes are scattered about here an' there on their own, got' about their own business; I don't suppose he'd be able to get 'em together in less than a couple of hours or so, even if 'e wanted to. But I don't think 'e does want it. Anyway 'e don't show no signs of it."

"I see," said Lawson.

TALKS TO PARENTS

Important Tools
By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH
A child's hands are a very important part of his body and should be carefully guarded. Parents who see the need for watching a child's sight and hearing may be very lax when it comes to his hands. They are apt to forget how large a part human hands play and have played in man's life and development.

Many a creative genius has failed to make good or has labored under a handicap because of some unearned injury to his hands in childhood. Mothers congratulate themselves on the fact that the disfigurement is to the hands rather than the face. On the other hand, they will have an injury to the face attended to by first-class surgeons, because a facial blemish is so apt to handicap the child. A severe cut on the hand they may pass by.

Fingers injured in baseball are quite generally disregarded. They are as common and supposedly as trifling as bumps and bruises. The boy who plays the game must expect to suffer the inevitable consequences. Later on, however, many a boy finds himself unable to do delicate handwork he wants to do, because of a break or severe dislocation which was neglected in childhood.

Children should use their hands for all kinds of things. It was affected and abnormal for boys and girls to consider caring for or protecting their hands. The responsibility for seeing that no serious injury is done to these delicate and valuable tools is the parents. They cannot afford to neglect cuts or sprains or cracked bones and knuckles simply because hands do not matter.

Deep cuts in the palm of the hand may injure tissue and prevent normal growth. Bruises on the back of the hand are sometimes quite serious. Baseballs caught on the end of the finger may damage knuckles, even break bones.

The Banquet

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
"WHATEVER do you mean?" asked Willy Nilly.

"We've elected you. It was voting day. I heard all about it around the barracks," said Top Notch.

"Cheers, cheers, cheers," quacked the ducks.

"Cheers, growl, growl," growled the bears.

"Cheers, cock-a-doodle-do," crowed Top Notch.

"Cheers, hoo, hoo," bleated Sweet Face.

"Cheers, wow-wow," barked Rip.

"Cheers, raw, raw, raw," cawed Christopher Columbus Crow.

"Shouldn't we have a banquet in his honor?" suggested Jelly Bear.

"You're just back from a hunt," said Top Notch snappily. He was still a little hurt that the bears had refused to listen to him.

"This would be in Willy Nilly's honor," growled Jelly Bear.

"And it would be inside you—if we had the banquet," retorted Top Notch.

"Now don't be hard on the bears," said Willy Nilly. "You must remember they don't eat all through the winter the way you do."

"Willy Nilly has the right idea," growled Honey Bear, and then she added:

"Is there any honey around?"

"Or jelly?" asked Jelly Bear.

"Or almost anything," asked Blacky and Jupiter and Chubby Bear.

"There's a lot left in the empty house," said Willy Nilly. "Well, go there now and have a banquet." And to the empty house they went.

But as they ate Willy Nilly said to himself:

"When, oh, when, will I ever have time to attend to my pointed, sticking-out ears? I don't want to have ears that look like the ears of a goat when I'm not a goat."

A Washington Daybook

By FRANKTON GLOVER
WASHINGTON—Morris Alger would have loved to relate the first part of this story, but not the last.

To some degree it parallels the fortunes of several members of congress who came up on the surge of the Democratic tide and went down when it subsided in certain ordinarily Republican sections. It makes you ask: What price politics?

Out in a western state lives Sam Maloney. That isn't his real name, but he is a real person. He was a sort of barbershop tenor kind, had a forest service job in summer and not much in winter. He chinned with brother Elks and wrote a column of wise cracks and kidding gossip for the Weekly Clarion that must have been killing, as he felt it.

Nearly everybody liked him and some day a better job would have fallen his way.

He Wins Office
His dad had been Republican for so many years that Democrats put up a ticket just for old times sake. None of the candidates ever campaigned except maybe the one running for governor. But in 1930 there was a slip, and a Democratic wave was elected.

Sam had done a trick or two for the Democrats so quit his forest job and went to the capital, expecting to be made game warden or better. He didn't get it, and moped around town for weeks. He got right down poor, and had a wife and child to look out for.

Came the spring primaries of 1932. Sam was nominated for state treasurer, although he could just as well have had a congressional nomination. All this was before Franklin D. Roosevelt was nominated.

Early November rolled around and on the Roosevelt boom Sam and a half dozen others were hoisted unexpectedly into the political light of day.

'Tis was heady, made a nice enough record as treasurer and was re-elected ahead of the rest of the ticket in 1934. In 1936 he decided he was the man to be governor.

Enter, Realism
AT THIS point Morris Alger moves out and realism moves in. Sam didn't get the nomination, will go out of office in January, and unless somebody finds something for him to do politically he won't have things so nice from now on for a while.

Temporarily he is in a unit now for his old forest service post or any lowly job, even if he could get it. It is hard to be seen talking to the parent-teachers' association one month and be sweeping out the schoolhouse next.

Perhaps he can satisfy himself with the memory of four grand years, although the p-y wasn't much. Now the question is: Who can use a second-hand state treasurer?

—COUNTY— Christian Endeavor NEWS—

Conference At Convention
A special ministers conference will be a part of the Ulster County Christian Endeavor Convention to be held at Clintonville on November 14, afternoon and evening. This conference will be headed by the Rev. Earle W. Gates with the subject, "Why Christian Endeavor," being discussed. All societies are requested to notify Miss Mary Langwick before November 11 if possible, as to the number of delegates they expect to send to the convention.

The Flying Squadron
The next stop on the itinerary of the Flying Squadron will be Stone Ridge on November 8; with Zena following on November 20. The two meetings conducted by this group so far, New Hurley and Flatbush, have been very successful with attendances ranging well over 30 on each occasion.

County Meeting
The meeting of the county officers was held on Monday evening at the home of Miss Mary Langwick at New Paltz. The question of the state pledge was talked over but no definite decision was reached. It was decided to sponsor the annual Christmas party but the exact location was not known at the meeting, and thus will be announced later. It was decided that the Flying Squadron should hold installation services for new elected officers of the various societies provided those societies desired such a service. Three new societies were received into the County Union; Fair Street Reformed of Kingston, First Presbyterian of Kingston, and Lake Katrine. Charcoters will be presented to these societies and the good wishes of the county union officers were voted to these new members. The next executive meeting will be held at Norman Blvd. in Ellenville on either December 7 or 14.

Golden Jubilee Birthday
Appropriate celebrations by the individual societies in honor of the Golden Jubilee Birthday of the New York State Christian Endeavor Union will be held during the month of November. Programs will be distributed by the state board to all societies and it is suggested that November 15 be set aside as the Sunday to hold these special meetings.

Zena Bible Study
Beginning with their meeting of November 6, the Zena Endeavorers will launch a program of Bible study meetings under the direction of the Rev. A. Walter Baker of the Woodstock Lutheran Church. This course will consume the better part of seven weeks. The topic for the first meeting will be "Saul, the Pharisee." Meetings will start at 7:30, last 40 minutes, and be followed by a period of recreation. Each evening, two of the members will have charge of the opening devotions. A cordial invitation is extended to anyone interested in learning more about the Bible to attend these meetings.

Comforter Discussion
The Comforters turned out with 19 members last Sunday evening to listen to a talk on "Temperance" by W. S. Wood, followed by a discussion on the subject. Gordon Craig is scheduled as the leader for next Sunday night. The regular monthly business meeting will be held on Friday, November 13, at 8 o'clock.

New Falls Supper
The New Falls branch of the Christian Endeavor held the first in a series of monthly supper-meetings on Sunday evening, October 25, in the church parlors. After a meal of sandwiches, cocoa and coffee, a business session was held and a new method of awards for regular attendance was set forth. After this discussion, the regular Christmas Endeavor 1936 was looked over and a lively debate on its merits followed. The meeting closed promptly at 8 o'clock.

Christmas Plans
The New Hurley Christian Endeavorers decided at a business meeting last Sunday evening to sponsor a Christmas supper in their church. More definite information as to the nature of the program will be given as announced later.

Overcoming the Orient
The First Dutch Reformed Society of Kingston turned out with 54 members last Sunday to listen to the

Woodstock in Line
According to a rather indirect report, the Woodstock Endeavorers are again active. At a meeting last week, the following officers were elected: Flora Davis, president; Carson Hutchins, first vice-president; Doris Cook, second vice-president; Alleen Lasher, secretary; William Elwyn, treasurer. Carl Eric Lindin gave a talk on the proposed Community Center that is being located in the artist colony, making a point of the provisions that are planned to take care of young people's activities.

Lake Katrine Society
Recent contacts have been made with Mrs. Donald Parish, president of the Lake Katrine society, resulting in the acquisition of another member for the Ulster County Union. The Lake Katrine group meets on Wednesday evenings at the home of the various members. Last Sunday night a delegation of them attended the Flatbush society on the occasion of the visit of the Flying Squadron.

Flatbush Meeting
The Flying Squadron visited Flatbush on Sunday and conducted a meeting with a group of 38 people. The members of the squadron on this program were Miss Mary Langwick, Milton Townsend and Henry Eighmy. The topic for discussion was "Does Religion Offer Help to Young People Today?"

A New Society
The young people of the Fair Street Reformed Church have recently organized, and on Sunday night Miss Beatrice S. Powley of the Ulster County Union visited this group and endeavored to explain to them the fundamentals of Christian Endeavor and why a society should become affiliated with the County Union. There were 17 present and their reaction towards Christian Endeavor in general, was most gratifying. The officers of this organization are: Miss Helen Short, president; Miss Elsie Mould, vice president; Miss Evelyn Short, secretary, and Ralph Short, treasurer.

First Presbyterian Meetings
Miss Evelyn Winfield and Burton Streeter led the First Presbyterians in a discussion on "War" last Sunday. The program for next week's meeting will feature Irwin Thomas in a talk on "Newspapers." The Junior Endeavor organization will meet on Thursday evening at 8:30 in the church with Burton Streeter again leading a discussion on "Juvenile Delinquency."

Old Fashioned Dance
An old fashioned costume dance under auspices of Creek Locks P. J. A. will be given on Friday evening of this week at 8 o'clock in Creek Locks School. Music will be furnished by Floyd Dietz. Refreshments will be on sale. A basket of fruit will be given to the man and woman having best costume and a basket of vegetables as second prize. Other prizes also will be given. It is not compulsory to come in costume. A good attendance is anticipated. A small admission is being asked.

Plan County-Wide Landscape Lecture

Miss Lucille Smith, landscape specialist, from the State College of Agriculture will be in the county on Friday, November 6, to give a county-wide lecture on "Garden Design and Use of Materials." Information will be given on the selection and use of local shrubs to produce an interesting effect on the home grounds.

Miss Smith will tell what to use as a background for flowers, what kinds to select for succession of bloom, color combinations and where to put the flower garden.

The meeting will be held in the supervisor's room at the Court House, in Kingston, beginning at 2 p. m. Any one interested in landscaping is cordially invited to attend this meeting.

To Win Or—

Win or lose, that will be the question decided by Justice W. E. Middleton (above), of the Ontario Supreme Court, in passing upon the claims of some half dozen candidates in Toronto's "stork derby." Armistice Day Ball Nov. 11

On November 11, 1918, there was a great celebration when hostilities in the World War ceased and once again this eleventh day of November will be a day for rejoicing. The cause for rejoicing on November 11, 1936, however, will be of a far different nature. This year that date will mark the 18th annual Armistice Day ball of Kingston Post, No. 150, American Legion, of this city and a very fitting celebration is being prepared by the same body who in 1918 were representing Kingston and Ulster county in one of the greatest wars of all times.

For the past several weeks plans have been made to give to Kingstonians and people of Ulster county the greatest ball which the Legion has offered in the 18 years of its existence. Committees have been hard at work planning to secure the best entertainment for the evening, the best orchestra which are available and that their efforts have met with success is shown by the fact that the entertainment and music committees under the direction of Vice Commander Harry L. Kirchner and Austin O'Toole have secured Jack Linton and his Clinton Ford musicians as one attraction and the famous Glen Cove Casino orchestra of Charlie Barnett to play opposite the local band.

In addition the entertainment committee has been negotiating with Harry Skes, New York city entertainer, to secure eight of the best acts which are available for the date. Word was received by the committee Monday that several acts had already been booked and that the remaining acts would be picked later. In order to secure the best kind of talent Mr. Skes is withholding the announcement of the acts until an all-star program can be sent to Kingston.

One thing which the committee in charge has insisted upon is that only the best be secured, not only as to music but also as to the entertainment. The entertainment will commence promptly at 8:30 o'clock so that those who dance may have a full evening of pleasure beginning at 10 o'clock sharp. As usual this early fall social event will be held at the Municipal Auditorium on Broadway. Entertainment features will be announced just as soon as booked.

The WORLD OF STAMPS

By QUINTON JAMES

The record of new stamps from France is still growing. The latest is a single item "peace" issue.

The adhesive, an oblong blue with a face of 150 francs, presents a large allegorical female figure of peace surrounded by a cheering crowd of men and women. The only inscription on the stamp is the word "Pax" (peace) in open-face letters placed near the head of the figure.

The stamp apparently is intended as a replacement for the previous "peace" issue of 1934, which pictured a dove carrying an olive branch.

Straits Again

The realignment of stamps from the Straits Settlements, which went into effect during the summer with the piece-meal arrival of new designs for various divisions of the British colony, is getting further augmentation.

This time it is a postage due, 4 cents yellow-green in shade with "Malayan postal union" across the top. The numeral of value is placed within a large open circle in the center, which in turn is encompassed by two frames, one fully shaded and the other shaded only in the corner.

The stamp's design is similar, except for the name of country, to the ones recently issued for the Federated Malay States, another Straits group.

Notes Of The World

Philatelists who keep track of such items report that there is no decrease in the number of commemorative stamps appearing from all over the world. In fact the number seems of the increase.

New Zealand's annual health stamp soon to appear will have in the center a smiling girl encircled by a lifebuoy on which is inscribed "Safe-guard health". In the background is a health camp.

Johore, a division of India, is planning a new stamp series.

In commemoration of the centenary of South Australia, three Australian stamps, 2-penny red, 3-penny blue and 1-shilling green, picture the proclamation tree and the city of Adelaide as it appeared in 1836.

1937 Hudson Custom Eight Sedan

Hudson's king of the highway—the Hudson Custom Eight Sedan. Not only is it a car of beautiful, advanced lines, but it is one offering exceptional room. It is built on a 129-inch wheelbase and has a 122-horsepower motor. A Deluxe series sedan also is available on this wheelbase. Both Deluxe and Custom Eight Sedans also are being presented on a 122-inch wheelbase.

The World

Following on the heels of two highly successful years, Pontiac enters the 1937 automobile year with two lines of cars (deluxe six and deluxe eight) that are longer in wheelbase, roomier, lower, even more pleasing in appearance, improved in comfortable riding qualities, with larger and more powerful engines, faster acceleration, higher top speed, additional economy and an all-around performance that is more brilliant in every way. Master Six models, with their conventional springing and not quite so many refinements, have been discontinued so that the economies of engineering and manufacturing can be concentrated on a single line of deluxe sixes and deluxes of equal quality. The gain in value thus offered is reflected in the prices of the deluxe six which are lower than the 1936 deluxe six.

Both lines will offer seven body styles: Business coupe, sport coupe, cabriolet, two-door sedan, two-door touring sedan and four-door touring sedan, although the straight sedan in both two-door and four-door eight will be built on order only. These 14 bodies will be available in seven colors with striping that provides a harmonizing contrast. Basic colors are black, blue, brown, gray, green, maroon and cream. A choice of light tan lustrous mohair or mixed wool upholstery cloth of high quality is provided, except for convertible coupes which are trimmed either in buffed, crush grain, tan Spanish leather or taupe colored worsted Bedford cloth.

Radical changes in exterior appearance, increased roominess in interior dimensions and the addition of a number of important new engineering advancements feature the Chrysler line for 1937. In introducing this new line, Chrysler announces its entrance into the low-priced field with a car that it expects to increase the volume of its production to double the 1936 figure. The new low-priced car, which has been named the Royal, is large, handsome and high-powered. The company makes it plain that the Royal is not built to sell at a price but is even finer in performance, beauty, comfort, roadability, safety and economy than its predecessors. The great demand for Chryslers in 1936 and the anticipation of a much greater demand in 1937, plus increased plant space, new machinery and greater manufacturing efficiency have made it possible to bring a car embodying all of Chrysler's fine features and with a full measure of the high quality that is traditional with the Chrysler name into a price range lower than any previously occupied by a Chrysler six. Interior dimensions have been so generously increased that the Royal has a roominess previously associated with much more expensive cars. The line com-

Salem, O. (AP)—Reporting that the city's "Black Maria" had traveled but 700 miles since it was purchased in 1928, Safety Director C. E. Donahy asked city council to sell it or trade it in on a new police cruiser. However, he said the highest price bid for it was $75.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Colman—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

The liver should pour out two quarts of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk. Laxatives are only makeshifts. A more bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two quarts of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Handsome, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

THE returns are all in and counted. The "American" Party—the choice of a million and more and a favorite for 26 years—wins again. Its candidates—Amoco-Gas and Orange American Gas—were overwhelmingly elected on the "American" Platform of Service and Savings—a platform where the promise is always performed. We thank the multitude of new friends and the million and more old friends who supported the "American" Party. We renew our pledge of greater values to all.

When mother tells father she wants to see him after the children go to school for a serious talk, he wonders what she has heard.

Man—It says in the Bible that Lot's wife looked around and turned to salt.

His wife—That's nothing. A girl got on the street car and six men turned to rubber.

Another advantage of the great open spaces, you don't step on chewing gum.

Nurse—I attended Doctor Barfacta's sex lecture this afternoon and, honey, you're certainly going to be glad about it.

Boyfriend—Really?

Nurse—Yes, I got enough sleep through it so I can stay awake all night.

Customer—Are you sure this parrot can talk?

Dealer—Can he talk? Why, a woman's club sold him to me because none of the members could get in a word.

But it's foolish.

If you this life care to leave in a hurry.

Then, brother, just spend it in useless worry.

Bill—Tom, are you ever troubled with sleeplessness?

Tom—I am. Some nights I don't sleep three hours.

Bill—I pity you, then. I've got it awfully bad. I've been afflicted now for about three years. The doctor calls it "neural insomnia paralytica."

Tom (grunting)—I've had it about six months; but we call it a baby.

The poor are absolutely necessary.

How would a country get any revenue if all of the voters were rich?

Mr. A—Did you find a great deal of difference between your home town of today and of 20 years ago?

Mr. B—Not much, except that the boys have progressed from the pickle keg stage to getting around on broad boxes.

Always Remember That.

The plumber you may kid 'bout forgetting—if you will—

But try and find one who forgets to send his bill.

Friend—I hear you've got a government job, now?

Brower—That's what! The first man gave an envious sigh and asked: Friend—Is it hard work?

Brower—Not after you got it.

"I've tried time and time again"

may mean just once or not at all.

Yesterday is gone. Today is short. Tomorrow may never come. Get busy.

Diner—I'll have apple pie for dessert.

Waiter—All out.

Diner—Well, then give me the raspberry.

Waiter—Sorry, sir, but we are not allowed to be offensive to guests.

Thoughts—And Other Little Things.

I give so much in loving you, in prayer, thought, and deed.

I wonder if the sacrifice is meeting a great need.

Does sunshine fill each hour, because of thoughts I send your way?

And are your slumbers peaceful, since each night for you I pray?

And do the past, and present, hold much less unhappiness

When I explain your future years can bring naught but success?

If little thoughts which go to you can make your life more sweet,

Each day I'll send a million, dear, and make your joy complete.

—LYLA MYERS.

Bob—What do they call her Dot for?

Allan—She's always trying to polka head in others' affairs.

Roosevelt's Victory Exceeds '32 Vote

with which he was credited in the tentative tabulations.

Under Ocean of Ballots

The returns thus sank the Landon campaign in an ocean of ballots and sent the Kansan's fortunes spinning down to the lowest depths reached by any major party in long generations.

The third party threat of Rep. William Lemke, Union party standard bearer, faded completely out of the picture from the time the earliest returns trickled in. His vote proved comparatively negligible and he fell leagues short of carrying any state.

Lemke, backed by Dr. F. E. Townsend and others, had predicted in advance that the election would be thrown into the House of Representatives because he would garner enough electoral votes to prevent either of the major party nominees from collecting a majority.

The arduous fight with such anti-New Deal Democrats as Alfred E. Smith, John W. Davis, James A. Reed and Balabridge Colby put up against the Roosevelt tide proved unavailing. Nor did the efforts of Father Charles E. Coughlin, one of the most vehement critics of New Deal policy, stay the victory march.

Happy scenes were enacted at Hyde Park, N. Y., where President Roosevelt sat at an oval table in the old manor and checked the returns with a pencil.

Procession Calls

Around 11 o'clock last night, a jubilant procession of torch-bearing neighbors with a band playing "Happy Days are Here Again," called him out on the front porch.

With red fire blowing in his smiling face, he said he couldn't make any "official remarks" but that it looked to him like "one of the largest sweeps ever heard of in the history of the United States."

His figure, clad in a blue suit with pin stripes, was prominently lined in the flickering glare as he told the cheering crowd:

"I hope, in the next four years, with the worst part of the emergency over, I'll be able to spend a little more time in Hyde Park."

Though Mr. Roosevelt was slow to comment officially, cries of jubilation were heard from other party leaders, from cabinet officials and from such strong New Deal supporters as John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

Democratic Chairman James A. Farley early pointed to the mounting Roosevelt lead as "an overwhelming vote of confidence." He said it was "not a partisan triumph" and that "nobody on our side of the fence has any thought of reprisal or repression." The President, Farley said, feels no "bitterness," even toward those "who so grossly assailed him."

If the returns felt like a solar plexus blow to Governor Landon, he took it with a grin. Joking, he stood host to friends at a coffee and doughnut supper in Topeka. Previously he had taken a brief nap before the flood tide of the ballots began.

Gibes at Reporters

When reporters gathered round him, he gibed at them for "fattening up on our good Kansas rations" during the months that Topeka has been a center of news activity.

Photographers asked him to pose against a huge sunflower. Merrily he called to his wife: "Theo, better have our picture taken while we've got a chance."

A "Landon victory cake" with red-white-and-blue frosting stood uncult on the Landon sideboard.

Landon's running mate, Col. Frank Knox, whose 24,000-mile tour and countless speeches constituted one of the most back-breaking campaign tasks in history, puffed away at his pipe in Chicago, smiling as he followed the returns. Vice President Garner, declaring he was "highly enthusiastic," telegraphed his congratulations to the President.

Across the nation excitement last night approached something like a frenzy. Wherever there was a newspaper bulletin board, a radio, or other fountain of election figures, people clustered. The groups ranged from handfule in hamlets to something like a million in Times Square, New York, where the great running letters of the New York Times electric bulletin board spelled out "Roosevelt Re-elected." Other newspapers also were quick to announce the result on the basis of the mounting flood of ballots.

Enthusiasm at Capital

At Washington, crowds stood outside the newspaper offices and roared at tell-tale bulletins showing how the great tide was flowing.

Incomplete figures pointed to a Democratic membership in the Senate exceeding the record-breaking total of 70 in the last Congress. In the House the Democrats had picked up 11 seats held by the Republicans, and had lost only two, not counting the two they dropped in Maine's September election.

In the last House of Representatives, the Democratic strength was 221 and the Republican only 194, with 16 seats held by minor parties.

The President and the Congress being sent back to Washington faced many delicate or controversial problems in the next year, many of which raise prospects of hard fighting, even though the Democratic congressional majorities are huge.

It was indicated in recent speeches the President seeks to attain such NRA objectives as limitations of working hours, wage boosts, and improved working conditions, all observers agreed there would be conflict, whatever the result.

Problems of Far-Eastern policy also must be settled in view of the imminent expiration of naval limitation treaties. A whole series of New Deal enactments will expire unless they are renewed by the next Congress, and indications are that the social security may be called up for modification.

Exports of agricultural products from the United States from January to August of 1936 were valued at $14,999,999.

HELPFUL ADVICE TO ACNE SUFFERERS

For acne pimples affecting the outer or surface layer of the skin, here is advice that will help improve your complexion.

Every night at bedtime, wash your face thoroughly with Resinol Soap and hot water. Do not rub. Follow with a dash of cold water and dry thoroughly but gently. Then apply Resinol Ointment to the affected skin and leave it on all night. Do this every night, and watch the improvement.

Local treatment is advised as a helpful aid in acne cases, and for more than 40 years the ingredients of Resinol have been found effective.

Resinol benefits by treating the irritated oil ducts, where most surface pimples start. In this way it aids healing of such pimples and also tends to check their recurrence.

Buy Resinol Ointment and Soap in any drug store. For free sample, write to Resinol, Dept. 12, Baltimore, Md.

Col. Knox Is Calm Over Defeat

Chicago, Nov. 4 (AP)—Col. Frank Knox took with apparent calm today the defeat of Gov. Alf M. Landon and himself.

In his comfortable offices in the Chicago newspaper (Daily News) he publishes, the Republican candidate for vice president was a jovial but keen observer of the election returns last night.

Knox smoked his pipe and exhibited a carefree mood as the reports, rushed to him from news wires and radio, poured in. With him were Mrs. Knox and a score of associates and friends.

Throughout the evening Knox declined to comment on the ballot trend. Not until he reached his Lake Shore home at nearly 2 a. m. did he issue a statement, although hours earlier his newspaper had recognized the Roosevelt landslide.

Shortly after the publisher reached his apartment he sent a telegram to President Roosevelt which he made public. He said:

"The American people have clearly indicated their will. I congratulate you on the confidence they have expressed in you."

Election By States Shows Strength

were elected to fill out the senate terms of Duncan U. Fletcher and Park Trammell, both of whom died last session. Fred P. Cone, Democrat, will succeed David Sholtz as governor. Democrats won the five house seats.

Georgia.

Senator Richard B. Russell, Jr., who defeated Governor Eugene Talmadge in the primary, was returned to the senate along with 10 Democratic representatives. President Roosevelt won the 12 electoral votes of his "other home state" and E. D. Rivers the governorship, succeeding Talmadge.

Idaho.

Senator William E. Borah was re-elected, his victory over C. Ben Ross, three times governor, being the only Democratic defeat. Returns indicated Borah's majority would about equal the majority by which the four electoral votes went to Roosevelt. Two Democrats were returned to the house and Barzilla W. Clark, Democrat, was elected governor.

Illinois.

Red whiskered Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, returned to the Senate, while President Roosevelt carried the 23 electoral votes after a raid deep into traditionally Republican down state districts. Governor Henry Horner was re-elected while William Hale "Big Bill" Thompson was a poor third as Union party candidate. Nineteen House seats went Democratic, five Republican, and three remained in doubt.

Indiana.

Carried by the Democrats only five times since the Civil War, Indiana gave its 14 votes to Roosevelt despite a Republican last minute drive. M. Clifford Townsend, Democrat, was leading for governor to succeed Paul V. McNutt. Five Democrats were sent to the House, seven seats remained in doubt.

Iowa.

Governor Clyde L. Herring, Democrat, led Lester J. Dickinson, Republican, for the Senate. The state's 11 electoral votes went to Roosevelt. One Democrat and two Republicans were elected to the House but six seats were in doubt. For the unexpired term of the late Democratic Senator Murphy, Guy M. Gillette, Democrat, was leading. F. H. Halden, Republican, George A. Wilson, Republican, was leading for governor.

Kansas.

Alfred M. Landon failed to carry his own state's nine votes. A Democrat, Walter A. Huxman, was leading in the race for the governor's seat. Landon will surrender. Three House seats went Republican, one Democratic, three remaining in doubt. Veteran Senator Arthur Capper, Republican, seeking re-election, led Omar Ketchum, Democrat.

Kentucky.

An inter-party shakeup failed to upset Democratic control. The state gave its 11 electoral votes to Roosevelt and re-elected Senator M. M. Logan, Democrat. However, its nine House seats remained in doubt.

Louisiana.

Again in the regular Democratic fold after the rampant reign of the late Huey P. Long, Louisiana gave President Roosevelt its 10 electoral votes. Allen J. Ellender, close friend of Long, was elected to the Senate without opposition after Mrs. Long, her husband's successor, retired. Eight Democrats were re-elected to the House.

Maine.

Maine stayed Republican, giving Landon its five electoral votes. In its own election September 14, Maine returned Wallace H. White, Jr., Republican, to the Senate. Three Republicans were returned to the House, two displacing Democrats. Lewis O. Barrows, Republican, was elected governor succeeding Louis J. Brann, Democrat, who opposed White.

Maryland.

Holding to forecasts and polls, Maryland gave its 8 electoral votes to Roosevelt and sent six Democrats to the House. No senator or governor was elected.

Massachusetts.

Perhaps the hottest battlefield of the campaign, Massachusetts, followed Roosevelt into camp with its 17 electoral votes but gave Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., Republican, relative of the late senator of the same name, the senatorship over Governor James M. Curley. Charles F. Hurley, Democrat, led for the governorship to succeed Curley while 12 House seats remained in doubt, two went Democratic, and one Republican.

Michigan.

Another hotly battled state gave its 13 electoral votes to Roosevelt. Frank Murphy, Democrat, high commissioner to the Philippines on leave, late in the count took the lead away from Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald, Republican. Two Republicans and three Democrats were elected to the House, 12 remaining in doubt. Rep. Fred M. Brown, Democrat, defeated former Governor Wilbur M. Brucker, Republican, for the Senate.

Minnesota.

Farmer-Labor controlled Minnesota gave its 11 votes to Roosevelt, and put Rep. Ernest Lundeen, who voted against American entry into the World War, into the lead for the senatorship vacated by retirement of Elmer Benson. Benson, Farmer-Labor like Lundeen topped Martin A. Nelson, Republican, for the governorship but the nine House seats remained in doubt.

Mississippi.

Senator Pat Harrison was re-elected without opposition, his battle having been won in the primary where his opponent was supported by Senator (The Man) Bilbo. Roosevelt received the nine electoral votes and seven Democrats went unopposed to the House.

Missouri.

Lloyd C. Stark, Democrat, led off for the governorship and seven Democrats were elected to the House, six remaining in doubt. Roosevelt took the 15 electoral votes. No senator was elected.

Montana.

In spite of a seeming party split, Senator James E. Murray, Democrat, was leading for re-election and Roy E. Ayres, a Democrat, was ahead in the governorship race. The two House seats were in doubt but Roosevelt received the four electoral votes.

Nebraska.

Supported by a special plea of President Roosevelt, veteran Senator George W. Norris, Republican running as an independent, was leading for re-election, benefited by a Democratic wave that gave the state's 7 votes to Roosevelt. The five House seats were in doubt. Governor R. L. Cochran, Democrat, was ahead in his race for re-election.

Nevada.

This mining state's three electoral votes went to Roosevelt and its one House seat was Democratic. No senator or governor was elected.

New Hampshire.

This New England state gave its four electoral votes to President Roosevelt by a narrow margin on nearly complete returns. Francis P. Murphy, Republican, was elected governor to succeed Republican Governor H. Styles Bridges. Bridges, in turn, was leading William N. Rogers, Democrat, for the Senate. One Republican House member was elected; one remained in doubt.

New Jersey.

This long time Republican stronghold gave its 16 votes to Roosevelt. William H. Smathers, Democrat, defeated Senator W. Warren Barbour, Republican, seeking re-election. No governor was elected. Four Democrats and three Republicans were sent to the House, 7 remaining in doubt.

New Mexico.

Two Democratic senators, Carl A. Hatch and Dennis Chavez were leading. Chavez for the short term. The state gave its three electoral votes to Roosevelt. Democrats sent one to the House. Governor Clyde Tingley, Democrat, was leading for re-election.

New York.

Al Smith's support of Governor Landon failed to take the state's 47 electoral votes from Roosevelt. Governor Lehman's re-election was conceded early by his Republican opponent, William F. Bleakley. Of its 45 House seats, 26 were Democratic, 16 Republican and three in doubt.

North Carolina.

Another 13 votes for Roosevelt here. Senator Bailey, Democrat, led the race for re-election and 11 Democrats were sent to the House. Clyde R. Hoey, Democrat, led for the governorship.

North Dakota.

Representative Lemke as a Union party candidate could not carry the state in his race for President and even his re-election to the House as a Republican was in doubt, along with the other House seat. No senator was elected. Governor Walter Welford, Republican, seeking re-election, held a lead over a field including former Governor William Langer. Roosevelt took the four electoral votes.

Ohio.

For the first time in 20 years Ohio elected a full Democratic ticket, giving Roosevelt the 26 electoral votes in stride. Governor Martin L. Davey, Democrat, was re-elected. Democrats won 17 House seats, Republicans two and five in doubt. No senator was elected.

Oklahoma.

One of the few remaining dry states in the Union, Oklahoma apparently decided to retain state prohibition. It gave its 11 electoral votes to Roosevelt and sent Rep. Josh Lee to the Senate after he had defeated Senator Gore in the primaries. Nine Democrats were elected to the House.

Oregon.

Senator McNary, Republican leader, held a lead over the Townsend-supported Democratic candidate, Willis Mahoney. The state gave its five electors to Roosevelt, and sent two Democrats and a Republican to the House.

Pennsylvania.

For the first time since the Civil War a Democrat won the state's 26 electoral votes. Neither a senator nor a governor was elected. Of the state's 34 House seats, 23 went Democratic, 3 Republican and 8 remained in doubt.

Rhode Island.

Jesse H. Metcalf, 12 years a Republican senator, was upset in the Roosevelt sweep and Governor Theodore Francis Green, a Democrat, will succeed him. Rhode Island's four electoral votes went to Roosevelt. Two Democrats went to the House, one displacing a Republican. Lieutenant Governor Robert E. Quinn, Democrat, was elected governor.

South Carolina.

With one of the largest proportionate majorities of any state, South Carolina gave its eight votes to Roosevelt, and sent James F. Byrnes, a Democratic New Deal spokesman, back to the Senate. Six Democrats were sent to the House. No governor was elected.

South Dakota.

Leah Jensen, Republican, was leading Democratic Governor Tom Berry, who was seeking re-election, the state's four electoral votes went to Roosevelt. The two House seats remained in doubt. Senator William J. Bulow, Democrat, led Chandler Gurney, Republican, in a nip and tuck race.

Tennessee.

Nathan L. Bachman was returned to the Senate by the Democratic sweep that gave 11 more votes to Roosevelt, seven Democrats and one Republican were sent to the House, one seat remaining in doubt. Gordon Browning, Democrat, was elected governor.

Texas.

Senator Morris Sheppard, Democrat and staunchest of prohibitionists, was re-elected without opposition and saw his state deliver 23 votes to Roosevelt. Governor James V. Allred, sometimes spoken of as a Democratic presidential white hope for 1940, was re-elected. Democrats sent 21 members to the House.

Utah.

Although in 1912 Utah was the only state to stand with Vermont for President Taft, it followed the Roosevelt sweep this time. It also gave veteran Governor Henry H. Blood, Democrat, a lead in his race for re-election. Two House seats remained in doubt.

Vermont.

Unlike Utah, Vermont remained Republican, giving its slender three votes to Governor Landon. It elected a Republican governor, George D. Aiken and sent one Republican to the House.

Virginia.

Senator Carter Glass, Roosevelt supporter but oftentimes New Deal critic, returned to the Senate without major party opposition and nine Democrats were sent to the House. Eleven electoral votes went to Roosevelt. No governor was elected.

Washington.

Democratic Governor Clarence D. Martin, seeking re-election, held a steady lead. Democrats won four House seats and two remained in doubt. Roosevelt took the eight electoral votes.

West Virginia.

In spite of attacks by junior Senator Rush Dew Holt, Senator Neely, Democrat, continued ahead in the race for re-election. Democrats won six House seats and gave Democratic Homer A. Holt—not a follower of Rush Holt—a lead in his race for the governorship. Roosevelt took the eight electoral votes.

Wisconsin.

Progressive-controlled Wisconsin delivered its 12 electoral votes to Roosevelt but gave a lead to Governor Philip F. LaFollette, Progressive, for re-election. The House seats remained in doubt. No senator was elected.

Wyoming.

Senator Robert D. Carey, Republican, trailed H. H. Schwartz, Democrat, in the senatorship race when Wyoming gave its three electors to Roosevelt. The one House seat was in doubt.

BALANCE YOUR BUDGET AND BUY A HOME

It is amazing what a budgeting plan will do toward quickly getting you that home of your own you are now dreaming of. Or a car. Or a fur coat. Or any other "big money" purchase. For, by tying this friendly ball and chain to your income you eliminate slipshod spending and always know where every dollar goes, even to the nickel you put in sister's bank.

Budgeting Is Not Indulgence.

The budget plan is not a cure-all, neither does it create "baloney dollars." It does give you new purchasing power by stopping unsuspected waste of money. It is a system of Planned Expenses. You just split up the family income scientifically—a prosaic method of applying book-keeping principles to household management.

The plan is easy to work out and simple to operate. You establish in your own mind the scale of living you want to adopt, then divide your income under different headings.

It is true that a budget plan is a hair shirt always irritatingly reminding you that wishing won't pay bills when you overbuy. But this plan for systematic saving shows you how to make both ends meet in these days of soaring costs.

Our 40-page booklet, HOW TO BUDGET YOUR INCOME, clearly explains the complete method and plan. Gives sample budgets that have proved successful in other households and contain specially planned pages for you to work out your own budget.

Send 15 cents for our booklet, HOW TO BUDGET YOUR INCOME, to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 109 West 19th Street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of the booklet.

An active and enthusiastic campaign will be waged here by the local units and members of the Catholic Daughters of America, in conjunction with the great international movement, "Today's Challenge to Catholic Womanhood" to be launched throughout the North American continent on November 15; prominent Catholic women leaders stated yesterday. Rallying to the call sounded by Supreme Regent Miss Mary C. Duffy for support of a Real Youth Movement, Catholic Education the National Converts' League, Extension of both Senior Courts and Juniors' Circles, Patriotic and Community Activities and various other projects furthered by the order, the two thousand subordinate courts and 200,000 members of the society will take an intensive part in the campaign.

Bearing the hearty endorsement of leaders of the Catholic hierarchy and clergy, the coming special activity has also received expressions of best wishes from heads of state and municipal governments, dignitaries of the Knights of Columbus and other great fraternal organizations. The Apostolic Blessing of His Holiness, Pope Pius XI, has been given the order for its many outstanding charitable, educational, patriotic and social service accomplishments, and the Holy Father has bestowed his Blessing on the approaching "Challenge to Catholic Womanhood", and the enrollment of thousands of additional Catholic women, young ladies and girls in the ranks of the Society and its Juniors' circles.

1. Ann, you can't stay away from Bill's houseparty! Everybody's going! I can't help it, Alice. My skin will probably still be bad and I won't let anybody see me when it's broken out like this.

2. I've got a suggestion to make, Ann, that will clear your skin up for good and all. Drink plenty of milk. That's got lots of calcium in it, you know. And skin specialists prescribe calcium to clear the complexion.

3. Alice, I can't thank you enough for suggesting milk. My skin looks like a movie star's! Life seems to be one party after another now—and try to keep me away from any of them!

Ann, you've got the loveliest skin I've ever seen.

Remember: Drink to the milk with a calcium complexion.

CLEAR UP YOUR COMPLEXION WITH MILK

What an easy, inexpensive way to acquire a lovely skin! You see, a great deal of skin trouble is due to lack of calcium. In fact, expensive dermatologists often prescribe calcium to clear up skin disorders. Milk is the richest food source of calcium known. DRINK SCIENTIFICALLY, by drinking milk. Keep your hair and your spirit while you're controlling your figure, as the movie stars do. What for? Milk's best. "The Milky Way." Simply send a postcard with your name and address to: Bureau of Milk Publicity, Albany.

had made arrangements with election officials and interested party workers in each election district to tabulate the vote cast and report it to his office on Wall street by telephone. Here the reports were taken down and tabulated.

Whether it was due to the rain that fell during the night after the polls had closed or not there were not the large crowds that surrounded the Republican and Democratic headquarters as there were last year during the mayoralty campaign. There were fewer people on the streets last night than there were election night a year ago.

Many of those interested in the election returns remained at home and tuned in on the radio, where latest returns were announced at frequent intervals.

Whirlwind Campaign

The sweeping Republican victory in Ulster county was due, according to party leaders, to the efficient work accomplished by County Chairman Philip Eiling and the whirlwind campaign carried on throughout the city and county by the Republican party under his leadership. During the campaign the candidates appeared in person at the numerous rallies held in Kingston and the various towns in the county.

A week before election Republican leaders had forecast the result in Ulster county, and that their figures proved accurate was shown by the large majorities given the national, state and county ticket.

Four years ago President Roosevelt carried the city by a small majority, although he lost Ulster county, but this year Governor Landon carried the city.

Middletown Will Give K.H.S. Stiff Tussle in DUSO Game Saturday

Kingston High School's gridiron gladiators journey over into Orange county to invade Wilson Field, the lair of the rampant Middletown pigskin purveyors, to engage in a classic struggle at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. After a long home stay, the Klasmen will make their first invasion of foreign fields in the current DUSO campaign.

Spacious Wilson Field, with a seating capacity of 2,160, and a total capacity of 3,590, will be the scene of a dramatic tussle when the Maroon and the Hughesmen take the field for a vital important game. Important, because the winner of this schoolboy classic will take a commanding position in the pennant race and become the probable winner of the 1936 championship bunting.

Middletown's array of football talent has been heralded throughout the Hudson Valley and in the ranking choice in the estimation of the experts to cop Saturday's setto. However, from a local view-point the game rates as a toss-up and the winner will be revealed when the final gun barks its staccato note.

Middletown suffered a sharp setback when the DUSO eligibility ruling deprived the Hughesmen of the services of Captain-elect Larry Teala and Nick Constanti. Also missing from the field of play will be most of that superb defensive bulwark that comprised last season's Middle line. Nania, All-DUSO left tackle and the mainstay of the '35 front wall, is missing along with Pignotti, left guard, who received mention in most of the All-DUSO second team selections. Dempsey, capable center, and Scharple, another All-DUSO nominee for right guard, John Hart, right tackle, in bidding adieu to scholastic competition. Hughes, starting right end in last year's fray, has been ousted by the versatile Broadhead in this season's campaign. Costanza, pile-driving full-back, is the only serious loss from the '35 backfield brigade that faced the locals at the Fair Grounds.

Middletown defeated the Klasmen in a brilliant scholastic pigskin drama last season by the extremely narrow margin of a safety scored in the last minute of play. Outfought and outplayed, the Hughesmen capitalized on an unfortunate break to emerge a very shaky 2-0 victor. Kingston garnered 10 first downs against the Middles' 7, and compiled a yard-gaining total of 205 yards as against the Orange Countyites' 140. This year's edition of the Maroon pigskin warriors is capable of revenge, the '36 biennial. The Klasmen were stopped inches short of a "big six" tally after a 68-yard march in last year's skirmish.

Coach Hughes' carveters possess an unbeaten record in a schedule that is a smaller edition of the famed Notre Dame program. Middletown defeated Textile High of New York city in the opener by a 14-0 tally and fought to a scoreless standstill with the outstanding Mont Pleasant eleven. The powerful Peekskill pigskin brigade, 19-0 victors over the Hughesmen in '35, were mauled about for a 28-0 trimming in the return engagement. Newburgh managed to hang a 7-7 verdict on the fumbling Wilsonites in the first DUSO encounter, but Middletown hung a 25-0 lacing on the tattered Fougkeepsle band last Saturday. In five contests to date, the Middles have tied twice and emerged victorious thrice for a sparkling record, against top-notch competition.

The Orange Countyites employ an unbalanced line with the versatile back-field featuring an offensive display of reverses, criss-crosses and spinners based on the Colgate scheme of attack. Andy Kerr's hocus-pocus and razzle-dazzle will be shown by the Hughesmen as in the past. The current Middle line-up consists of Gordon Dayton, All-DUSO nominee and Gordon Broadhead at the flanks. Broadhead barks the signals from the wing in addition to attending to preserving his reputation as the finest defensive flank in recent M. H. S. history. Johnny Brown and Fran Warnke from the tackles and Murray Schulman and Joe Roselli, guards, and Roger Vall at the center. In the backfield is the elusive Ray Dodd, the hard-charging Nick Critelli, the trusty-toed Ira Cummings and the versatile George Smick. Dodd is the climax runner, while Cummings' extra-point ability has gained vast renown. Smick does the booting and most of the passing and Critelli is a capable all-around performer specializing in defensive and plunging departments.

It is a ball-carrying brigade that will take plenty of stopping by the stalwart Kingston line.

Yellow Jackets to Face West Point Artillery Sunday

Once again the West Point Artillery will invade the Fair Grounds to meet the Kingston Yellow Jackets. Sunday the locals will be forced to play their game on an open field because the cost of hiring the canvas enclosure has been found to be too great. Just what the result of this move will be and its effect on the financial standing of the club, will be hard to guess as it now puts the football fan on his honor to support the local aggregation.

The Artillery are said to have an exceptionally strong team, every bit as good as the group that played here some years ago which featured Alabama Christmas and Don Beany, the latter now with the Kingston outfit.

The Yellow Jackets have suffered three losses in their ranks, with Charlie Raibie, Jimmie Cullum, and Dan Whiteley, all forced out of action by outside business activities. Zip Zacheo, former linesman with Kingston High School and later with the Yellow Jackets, has been shifted by Coach Jerry Dunn to backfield duty, and will make his bow in Sunday's game.

Orders have been given for the usual scrimmage practice on Thursday evening and a signal drill on Friday in back of Rose and Gorman store, to prime the Jackets for their clash with the West Pointers.

Philly Hebrews Oppose Colonials In League Opener

The American League basketball season will open in Kingston tonight with the champion Philadelphia Hebrews opposing the Kingston Colonials.

The Hebrews have always enjoyed playing in this city because usually they have come out with another win, but tonight Frank Morgenweck, local director, expects to upset the apple cart. However, Manager Eddie Gottlieb of the Pennsylvanians, is equally sure of winning, so there should be a fine battle in store for those who make it a point to be present for the opening celebration of the league.

The lineup of the champions will include Shiky Gotthofer, Inky Lautman, Moe Goldman, Sid Rosen, Red Wolfe, Cy Kaselman. The probable starting lineup of the Colonials will be Pip Koehler and Lefty Kintzler in the forecourt, Tiny Hearn at center, and Carlie Husta and Phil Rabin, guards. Corky Stanton and Ben Miller are the reserves.

Gov. Lehman Return To Office

Crime bills. The Governor named as one of the leaders of this group.
Assemblyman Horace M. Stone, of Onondaga.

Stone Defeated

Stone was defeated yesterday by a substantial margin by his Democratic opponent, Francis McElroy in a contest for the State Senate seat vacated by Senator George R. Fearon of Syracuse. Fearon, a leading contender for the Republican gubernatorial nomination declined to run for re-election, ending twenty-one years of service in the legislature.

In his campaign for re-election
Governor Lehman stoutly defended his record of Social and Labor legislation and pledged to renew the fight for enactment of his Social Security program to bring New York State into line with the Federal program.

By GEORGE R. LOVEYS

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 4 (AP)—Both Republicans and Democrats clung today to their majorities in New York's legislature, assuring a division of control of the 1937 Senate and Assembly for a second consecutive year.

The Republican seats in the Assembly will be reduced by five to a bare working majority of 76 as against the Democrats' 74 on the basis of complete returns from yesterday's balloting, but the Democrats will control the Senate by the same margin of 29 to 22.

The Democrats picked up Assembly seats in the Fifth District of Westchester county; Third Erie, Second and Fourth Monroe, Sixth Kings, and Clinton and Sullivan counties, while the only Republican gains were in Schoharie and Albany counties.

It appeared possible for a time
that a deadlock at 75-75 would result, but late morning returns showed that S. Earl McDermott of Cohoes, Democratic incumbent, lost
by a close margin to John McBain,
a new comer to politics from Albany,
in Albany county's Third District.

Recount Necessary

So close was the race that a recount of unofficial figures was necessary before the definite result was announced.

The other Republican Assembly gains were made by Arthur L. Parsons, who defeated the veteran Assemblyman William S. Dunn of Schoharie county, author of milk control legislation the past two years.

Walter J. Mahoney of Buffalo,
president of the Young Republican Clubs of New York state, and Clifford J. Hastings, Troy supervisor, won Republican senate victories, but they went for naught through the surprising defeat of Horace M. Stone, veteran Syracuse legislator, and Joseph Clark Baldwin, 17th district representative of New York's 17th district
the past two years.

Stone, bidding for the seat vacated by Senator George R. Fearon, lost to Francis D. McElroy, a Syracuse lawyer and comparative newcomer to politics, by 5,209 votes with only two small districts missing.

The veteran legislator, an assemblyman since 1922, lost the city of Syracuse by 11,103 votes, too great a margin to overcome in Onondaga county's 85 rural districts.

Lehman Called For His Defeat

Stone's opposition to Governor Lehman's crime control and social security programs last winter prompted the chief executive to brand him as a "reactionary." In a campaign speech in Syracuse two weeks ago, Lehman called upon the electorate to defeat the legislator.

Only the speaker of Mayor La Guardia's New York city legislation in the senate, lost in a close fight to Leon A. Fischel.

The Democratic gains were by:
Jule L. Malzel over Robert J.
Crews, incumbent, sixth Kings;
Arthur J. Doran over William T.
Greive, incumbent, fifth Westchester;
Fred Hammer over Edward J.
Elaesser, third Erie; Stephen S. Joy
over Charles R. Haggerty, incumbent, second Monroe; Myer Braunman over Harry J. Gaylor, incumbent, fourth
Monroe; Emmet J. Roche over Mc-Kenzie D. Stewart, incumbent, Clinton; and Otto J. Hillig, trans-Atlantic flier, over J. Maxwell Knapp, incumbent, Sullivan.

Leaders Win Easily

Senator John J. Dunnigan, Democratic majority leader of the senate;
Assembly Speaker Irving M. Ives of Chenango county, Republican Assembly Majority Leader Oswald D. Heck and Democratic Assembly Minority Leader Irwin Stelting won handily.

The three women legislators—Jane H. Todd and Doris I. Byrne of the assembly and Mrs. Rhoda Fox Graves of the senate—were returned to office.

Republicans had been hopeful of increasing their assembly majority to at least 80 votes and likewise regain control of the senate.

A fight over the Republican senate leadership appeared assured in view of the retirement of Senator Fearon, party leader for the past several years.

Among those frequently mentioned
for the post are Senators Farley A.
Pitcher of Watertown, Frederic A.
Montecou of Dutchess county and Thomas C. Desmond of Orange county.

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—The record
shattering New York state plurality for President Roosevelt swept back into office today Governor Herbert H. Lehman and the Democratic state ticket, but left Republicans in bare control of the Assembly.

The numerical ratio of the state delegation in the national House of Representatives—28 Democrats and 16 Republicans—remained unchanged, while the Democrats increased their state Senate majority from seven to eight.

William F. Breakler, Republican gubernatorial candidate, conceded defeat long before the count was completed.

The vote for governor is 2,727 of 8,850 districts: Lehman 2,673,936;
Breakler 2,110,913.

On that basis, Breakler, former Yorkshire Supreme Court justice, carried the upstate counties by a margin of about 560,000, but Lehman's

EVERYBODY VOTED FOR SOMEBODY ON TUESDAY

Notable or "nobody," everyone turned out on Election Day to swell the voting to its greatest volume in the history of the United States. Those above were no exception. Left, Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president, had a smile as he entered a voting booth in New York city. And then the famous brown derby popped up as Alfred E. Smith signed a voting blank before casting his vote. Third from right, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the late "TR," and her son, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., were early at the polls. To insure another Democratic tally, Mrs. James Roosevelt (right), mother of the President, expressed her preference (guess who!) as she voted at Hyde Park, N. Y. (Associated Press Photos).

plurality of 922,000 in New York city overcame that lead.

Lieut. Gov. William Bray, Attorney
General John J. Bennett and Comptroller Maurice Tremaine were re-elected by about the same plurali-ties.

G. O. P. Majority Reduced

The Republican majority of 12 in the Assembly was reduced to the minimum by Democratic gains in the fifth Westchester district, third Erie, second and fourth Monroe, sixth Kings, Clinton and Sullivan.

The Democrats lost two seats,
however, in the third Albany and Schoharie districts. This lineup gives: Republicans 76; Democrats 74. It will enable the Republicans to organize the House again and elect a speaker.

The new Senate will consist of 30 Democrats and 21 Republicans. The latter party won the 48th District, but lost two seats in the 17th and 38th.

Although the congressional delegation was unchanged numerically,
the Democrats and Republicans
traded one seat each. Rep. Vito Marcantonio, Republican, lost in New York city to James J. Lanzetta,
Democrat, while upstate, Fred J.
Douglas, Republican, won the 33rd
District from Rep. Fred J. Sisson, Democrat.

Rep. Bert Snell of Potsdam, the House Republican leader, was re-elected, as were Rep. Hamilton Fish, Republican, of President Roosevelt's home district, and Rep. John J.
O'Connor, chairman of the powerful sales committee.

Greatest Majority

The greatest majority ever given a candidate for the presidency by New York State was rolled up today for Roosevelt on the basis of nearly complete returns.

A lead of more than 1,175,000
votes for the Democratic candidate was recorded in the contest between him and Gov. Alf M. Landon for New York's 47 electoral votes.

The count in 8,291 districts of the 8,850 in the state was: Roosevelt
3,158,741, Landon 1,980,232.

Only the Republican landslide of 1920 registered a plurality approaching that given Mr. Roosevelt. Then
New York state gave Warren G.
Harding 1,089,929 more votes than James M. Cox. The total vote for all candidates was 2,593,672.

Even in 1932, in the landslide which removed Herbert Hoover from office, Mr. Roosevelt's plurality was only 536,396 in this state.

For the President the vote in this state, ancestral home of a family which has given two Roosevelts to the presidency, was a double victory.
In that Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, whom Mr. Roosevelt used to call his "strong right arm," was reelected for a third term with the entire Democratic state ticket.

Tammany At Work

That Tammany Hall went down
the line for the Roosevelt-Lehman tickets was apparent from the tremendous pluralities rolled up in the metropolis.

President Roosevelt's complete vote in New York city was 2,016,204 against 658,746 for Landon. His metropolitan plurality of more than 1,356,000 contrasted with his city

plurality in 1932 of 871,000 over Herbert Hoover.

Lehman's city plurality was 922-038.

In the city's own political struggle,
a Tammany-supported candidate,
William F. Brunner, won the presidency of the board of aldermen over Newbold Morris, Republican.

Returns Show Congress Majority

California Republican, and Reps.
Ranley and Darrow, Pennsylvania
Republicans.

Democrats started off with 47
hold-overs and three unopposed candidates in the senate, giving them one more than a majority of 49 to start. They quickly elected 11 more, carrying their total to 61.

Meanwhile, the Republicans, con-
testing in more disputed territory, could count no victories. Their carryover of 11 had been carried to 12 by the election of Senator White in Maine's September election, but through the long night hours no more were added.

It appeared likely, however, that the Republicans would pick up at least one seat in Massachusetts where Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., was leading Governor James M. Curley.

It was in the house that the Republicans hoped to make a real outlet in the Democratic majority. But by early today, the Democrats had elected 197 house members while the Republicans were getting only 36. A majority of 218.
